It was Frank's first day at a new school.
On the walk there, he was very nervous.
"What if the other kids don't let me play with them?"

When he got to the schoolyard, he saw so many new faces running around shouting and playing.

Suddenly, he felt even more nervous.

Frank spied some bushes near the yard entrance... "Perfect! I can hide in there."

Slowly, he crept behind a tree near the yard entrance.
“OK,” he said, “1...2...3!” Frank ran as fast as he could and dove into the bushes.
It’s dark in here, but safe he thought.

Just then, Frank felt a tap on his shoulder. “AAAAAAAUGH!” he screamed. “Shhhhhhh! They’ll hear us,” came a voice from behind him. Find us? “What are you doing in the bushes?” Frank asked the voice.

“I’m new here. I’m scared to go out there,” the other voice in the bushes replied. Frank thought for a moment, then he slowly turned around and said, “I’m Frank. I’m new here too...that jungle gym is huge. Wanna go climb it?”

The jungle gym was huge, and it was so much fun.
Best of all, Frank had made a new friend!
He might have been the new kid, but he wasn't the only one.
